

Case Study 1

Sally was a Form 5 student in a local high school in Hong Kong. As she wants to continue her further education after senior high school graduated, she came and enquired our consulting service in August 2015. Sally told us she wanted to take Mathematics as her major at Warwick University. However, she was unsure of which to apply to and the procedure of application.

Our consultant asked her to do a few of our assessments including academic, personality and psychology test. After evaluating her results, our consultants recommended a list of universities to Sally, explaining to her how she would fit in, not only academically but also in the studying environment. Our consultants also explained the application timeline in detail, such as important dates any external exams needed to be taken, whilst giving her full support during every stage. She now studies Mathematics at Warwick University.
